By RICHARD VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government today suggested sabotage caused the deadly series of explosions aboard a French freighter delivering munitions to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's army. Indignation mounted as casualty estimates ranged from 40 to 100 dead.

After a midnight emergency Cabinet session, President Osvaldo Dorticos declared in a nationwide TV broadcast that Friday's disaster in Havana Harbor "had all the characteristics of a barbarous and criminal attack on the people of Cuba." He did not specifically mention sabotage but others went further and charged sabotage.

The semi-official newspaper Revolucion said all information gathered by Castro's security forces "indicate it was produced by an act of sabotage promoted by an international plot against Cuba."

Casualty estimates were varied in the confusion.

A government-operated TV station placed the dead at 75 to 100 and injured at 200. But Revolucion set the figure at 41 dead and 188 injured.

A government announcement following the Cabinet session avoided giving official casualty figures. It called them "numerous."

Castro placed his military and police forces on a standby alert in the wake of the blasts which wrecked the freighter La Coubre carrying Belgian munitions.

Cuban labor leaders and radio-TV announcers flatly branded the last as sabotage.

A usually reliable source close to the government said a time bomb had been found in the ship's freezing unit, but this was not officially confirmed.

Some Castro elements suggested a sneak light plane raid by government forces set off the explosions which demolished three waterfront warehouses.

The Cabinet decreed a day of mourning for the French crewmen of the 4,300-ton ship, dockworkers and five fighters who died in the series of blasts.

The unloading of the freighter, bringing 76 tons of munitions, was well under way when the first explosion ripped the ship's rear end with a roar that rocked the capital. Fire burst out.

Police and firemen raced to the aid of 27 workers in the hold, but many apparently perished immediately.

Bullets set off by the fire whined through the stricken area as police and soldiers tried desperately to clear out panic-stricken crowds of civilians.

Firefighters and pier workers who had boarded the ship to rescue explosion victims were caught by a second blast about a half hour after the first explosion.

The impact of the blasts shattered windows, buckled metal doors and cracked balconies 500 yards away.

Dorticos said an intensive investigation was under way to determine the origin of the explosions. There was no official estimate of the material damage, but twisted wreckage on the docks indicated it would run into the millions.

President in Puerto Rico to Make Talk

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DORADO, Puerto Rico (AP) — President Eisenhower came here today by helicopter to make a brief speech on his just-concluded South American tour and to get in a round of golf.

It was a bright, hot day as the President—admittedly bushed by his four-nation, 10-day trip—arrived from Ramey Air Force Base, where he had spent the night.

His luncheon audience included some critics of U.S. policy.

Arriving at Ramey Thursday, Eisenhower was undisturbed by an engine mishap that put him almost two hours over wild Amazon jungles in a plane with one of its four jets out of action. The pilot said the President never was in any danger, and he switched in Surinam, formerly Dutch Guiana, to another jet for the rest of the flight from Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Conscience Fund to Be Credited

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue service said today errant taxpayers who make anonymous contributions to the agency's "conscience fund" will be credited with the payments if tax agents ever catch up with them.

In response to an inquiry, officials said evidence of every payment to the fund is carefully preserved for this purpose.

Conscience fund is the informal name given to an IRS account which receives contributions from taxpayers who have cheated Uncle Sam and want to settle their debt without revealing their identity.

The fund collects about $10,000 a year. Recent payments have ranged from 10 cents to $2,000.

One man wrote that he couldn't sleep because of his tax evasion and was seeing in $300. He added this postscript: "If I still can't sleep, I will send more later."

Perhaps the strangest of all conscience fund cases involved a retired New England business man. He sent in five new $1,000 bills and was quickly traced through the serial numbers.

When agents called on him, he reported that he came to the United States as an immigrant, built up a prosperous business and felt the country had been so good to him that he ought to make a contribution just in case he had once made an unwitting error in his taxes.

Agents went over his books and found that Uncle Sam owed the man $11,000. So he got a treasury check for $16,000, which included the return of his anonymous payment.

Officials said no effort is made to trace most contributions. However, action is taken if the amount is substantial and if enough leads are provided.

$50,000 Grant for Hendrix

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — The Hendrix College development fund has received a grant of $50,000 from Fort Smith attorney G. C. Hardin. It was announced by Dr. Marshall T. Steel, Hendrix president today.

The money will be used to help finance new physical education and fine arts buildings at the college.

Construction of the new buildings is expected to start this summer. Hardin is a graduate of Hendrix and is on the board of trustees.

Red Papers Attacking Mr. Herter

MOSCOW (AP) — The two leading Soviet newspapers today launched a concerted attack on U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

In an article covering most of an inside page, Izvestia methodically rejected every feature of a disarmament plan Herter outlined in a speech to the National Press Club Feb. 18.

Pravda attacked his recent statement on the Baltic states and accused him of speaking in "the cold war spirit."

The piece in Izvestia, the government newspaper, was signed "Observer," the title usually assigned to a writer of an article voicing a calculated government position.

It appeared to be highly important in view of the opening of the 10-nation disarmament talks in Geneva 12 days hence. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's forthcoming talks with French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris and the East-West summit meeting in May.

In his Feb. 18 speech Herter called on the Soviet Union to abandon "hollow slogans" on disarmament and he advanced ideas for a phased approach.

The various stages would include safeguards against surprise attack, suspension of nuclear weapon production, progressive and balanced reduction of military manpower and conventional armaments and finally the strengthening of international forces and machinery to keep the peace.

Izvestia said step-by-step disarmament was a program "to achieve control without disarmament."

"Observer" said the way to prevent surprise attack is complete disarmament, not controls.

Pravda's attack was aimed at a Herter statement Feb. 15 on the 42nd anniversary of the independence of Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania from Russia. The statement said the countries were entitled to governments of their own choice. The United States has never recognized their annexation by the Soviet Union in World War II.

Pravda called the statement a "rude, tactless attack against the Soviet Baltic republics." Pravda said it constituted "an attempt just as intolerable as hopeless to intervene in the affairs of the Baltic peoples."

The statute says the board members must be registered psychologists of five years' standing.

SCS District Designed to Aid Farmer

For the benefit of any unfamiliar with Soil Conservation programs, the Soil Conservation District is a area in which the farmers and ranchers have banded together in order to obtain Soil Conservation objectives which they could not obtain working singly.

Not only does this organization make it possible for them to work together on large projects, but it makes them eligible for individual assistance by technicians of the Soil Conservation Service.

Of particular interest is the fact that cooperation in Soil Conservation activities is purely voluntary and technical assistance is given at no cost.

Three members of the board of Supervisors are elected by public vote of the landowners, and two are appointed by the State Geological and Conservation Commission.

They are community minded farmers who donate their services without compensation to the cause of Soil Conservation. Hempstead County Board of Supervisors are Wm. R. Routon, Chairman, Emory A. Thompson, Vice-Chairman, Monroe R. Samuel, Sec. Treas., Smon Goodlett, member, E. M. McWilliams member. Services available can be learned at the local SCS office.

Pneumonia, Flu Deaths on Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deaths from influenza and pneumonia declined last week in the large cities. The Public Health Service reported this today, said it was the first significant weekly decrease this year.

There were 939 such deaths for the week ended Feb. 27, with 13 deaths in the previous week. Revised figures for the preceding weeks were 1,037 for the week ended Feb. 20, 1,040 for the Feb. 13 week, and 1,006 for the Feb. 6 week.

The last available figures of the Department of Commerce show that in December and January the increase in manufacturers' inventories was very large, 800 million dollars in each month.

But in January new orders fell off by a billion dollars to a total below the year-ago figure.

Sales in January didn't rise from December, and so the backlog of unfilled orders dropped a little to 50 billion dollars.

At the wholesale level, sales in the January dropped to 94 billion dollars, down 13 per cent from December, a greater decline than usual for that month.

Side Winning Rights Battle Questionable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of broad new civil rights legislation differed today over whether they had lost ground to Southern foes in a marathon Senate session now well past the 100-hour mark.

Sen. E. L. Bartlett (D-Alaska) said they unquestionably had, but Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.) disagreed and predicted they would reconcile their differences and force a halt to the filibuster of the Dixie forces.

In a separate interview, Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) said flatly that the civil rights advocates cannot get the necessary two-thirds majority to shut off debate on the seven-point administration bill now before the Senate.

At midnight Friday the Senate had been in round-the-clock session for 108 hours since last Monday noon except for one 15-minute recess Wednesday morning. Previous records for nonstop sessions had long since fallen.

But Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said he planned to call for a halt late this afternoon and take a recess over Sunday, with the battle to be resumed Monday.

Difference in Slowdown and Reversal

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The bears who think the business boom has stubbed its toe have more than just the stock market to point to today.

But the bulls declare stoutly that there's a big difference between a slowdown in the rate of gain of business activity and an actual reversal. A reversal hasn't shown up and may not.

But the bears have new ammunition today in the disquieting official report that while manufacturers' inventories were increasing at a fast rate in January, new orders were dropping and sales were barely holding their own.

The result was a slight dip in unfilled orders.

This already has caused a slowdown in some industries. Some auto companies have cut back output. Some steel mills have slowed down production and also pared their earlier predictions on first-half-year output.

In the stock market this appears to have led some of the big institutional holders of stocks to sell large blocks of blue chips. A lot of the proceeds appear to have gone into bonds, selling at bargain prices and therefore yielding more of a return for the money than many common stocks.

The stock market has suffered from a change in public expectations about further inflation. When that was considered a sure thing, stocks were being gobbled up. Now that most observers believe it has been staved off, the outlook for a stretch-out in general good times—as distinct from boom and bust—has improved.

Those who have faith in continuing prosperity hold this is all to the good and postpones the date of the next recession.

Persons Born From Feb. 19 Through March 19 Have Two Types of Personalities

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Why is the sign of Pisces, for people born from February 19 through March 19, that of two fish?

Possibly it is because there are two distinct types of Pisces personalities. One is very charming, magnetic, attractive, and pleasant to meet. The other has all of these qualities, but possesses a great deal of reserve that borders on bashfulness and timidity, too, so that often makes them misunderstood.

People who were "leap year babies" fall into this category. Those born on February 29 are ardent, affectionate, and demonstrative, but they are also inclined to be flocky. They like social popularity and are the extrovert type. There are several conflicting elements in their personalities.

Many great people who became outstanding in various fields were born under the sign of Pisces. The first who comes to mind is George Washington. Other great names range from "Buffalo Bill" Cody to Albert Einstein.

Great statesmen, sportsmen, and actors are all found among Pisces personalities.

Since a sensitivity trail seems to be predominant in most people born under this sign, it is not surprising that musicians like Handel, Chopin, and Caruso, as well as Jimmy Dorsey, Harry James, and Peter de Rose are in this category. So are outstanding writers ranging from Victor Hugo to Elizabeth Barrett Browning to James Russell Lowell. Two of the world's greatest artists, Michelangelo and Van Gogh, were Pisces people.

In disposition they are naturally kind, generous, sympathetic, patient, and reserved. From a mental and emotional point they are quite sensitive in their reaction to the spoken word, the general attitude of people around them, and to circumstances and environment. By nature they are peaceful. Anger and peevishness have a tendency to upset their nervous systems more than many other types.

These folks are faithful to any trust or commission. They have a fine and deep sense of appreciation for any kindness shown them, whether it be in thought or action. Feelings and emotions often play a large part in their process of reasoning. They are inclined to let personal prejudices and preconceived notions cloud their judgment and understanding.

If you are a Pisces personality your mind is the power behind that personality and its expression. You have good powers of observation, perception, meditation, reasoning, and judgment. Way down inside you have the power to overcome any timidity or unwisdom reserve. Just don't let your heart play too great a role over your head.

Some of my favorite people fall into this category, and I knew they were charming, lovable people even before reading the information contained in this account. No doubt, it came as no surprise to you either as we unfolded the horoscope for people born in Pisces.

Eastern Storm Death Toll Is Near 150 Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — A stricken Northeast, struggled to dig out of the snow today as the great March storm headed out over the North Atlantic.

From Maine to Dixie, residents worked to clear paths and rescue automobiles from under mountainous snow drifts.

Transportation returned slowly toward normal but slumps and delays were still reported.

In many areas, work was hampered by a cold wave that turned packed snow hard and chilled slush into unmanageable ice.

Across the nation, the weather death toll neared the 150 mark.

For many states it was the worst winter storm in more than a decade.

New England reeled under the storm's most vicious blows Friday as the frigid fury howled seaward. Gusts of hurricane force whipped the region, dumping up to two feet of snow and swirling it into drifts up to 11 feet.

Boston, battered by gales and choked with more than 15 inches of snow, was paralyzed and declared an emergency. So did

PROBLEMS OF FAITH

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

When Jesuit college presidents meeting at Boston College spoke of "spiritual bewilderment" I assumed they were referring to the spiritually inclined but nonetheless bewildered.

I have written of the vast number of people who are not enough interested in moral or spiritual matters to be bewildered or even to care. This is a great human tragedy.

But there can be no question that among those who do care there is undoubtedly much "bewilderment." The causes, as I see it, go much deeper than the question of the adjustment of faith, of moral and spiritual outlook in the present dominant interest in material science.

Much of the bewilderment is related to science, but in a more remote way, going back into the 19th century. Some of it is reflected in my own correspondence concerning the origin of man and the question of evolution, which for most thoughtful people ought to have been settled by now.

An outstanding fact is the enormous progress that has come about within the range of one lifetime. The first Bible that I knew and read had in its margin 4004 B.C. as the date of creation and the origin of man.

It is surprising how much that date in the Bible record still besets and troubles so many devout religious people who feel that they must "believe the Bible," regardless of the evidence of the rocks, the trees and other scientific evidence, and who are considerably bewildered or blindly determined to keep their faith.

Two things ought to be emphasized. Fact and truth are as much a part of God's world and God's revelation as anything in the written word. A first question: What is fact and what is true? Secondly, the Genesis account is in an Eastern book, coming out of a non-scientific age and never intended to be a scientific account.

I was fortunate in studying the early chapters of Genesis under a devout scholar, the late Chancellor Nathaniel Burwash of Victoria College in Toronto. To him it was a great "poem of creation."

Many fail to understand the poetry of the Bible, which has enough plain fact and truth for life to suggest that its readers avoid the pitfalls of misreading and misinterpretation.

There is no doubt that for many the problems of faith in a century of change go much deeper than questioning the evidence of the rocks and similar matters. Chief-

THE STORY: A mysterious picture in a magazine placed Phil Bokker with Quantrell's band of Confederate guerrillas when he was actually serving in the Union Army during the Civil War. Seeking to clear himself, Phil travels westward into Kansas where he meets a former Union comrade Paul Shay on a train.

CHAPTER XI

Seated opposite Shay and Bokker was a grizzled man in buckskin. His seatmate was a man about 40, clad in gray Prince Albert, gray serge trousers and a gray derby. He wore a flowered vest and a gray cravat, in which was stuck a huge pin that was either a diamond or a very good imitation.

The man in gray leaned toward Paul Shay. "We've a long trip ahead of us. Would you gentlemen care for a game of cards?"

Shay looked at Bokker. "It's eight hours to Pawnee City."

Bokker shrugged. "If the stakes aren't too high."

The man in buckskins brightened. "I just sold me a load of buffalo skins in Kansas City."

The man in the gray costume produced a pack of cards. "I just happen to have some cards with me."

Paul Shay smiled. "If you don't mind, I'd prefer a new pack."

He signaled to the conductor, collecting tickets a few seats away. When the trainman came over, Paul said, "Is there a newsboy on the train I'd like to buy some playing cards?"

The conductor produced a sealed pack of cards from his pocket. "Just happen to have a deck with me." He grinned. "There's a big demand for cards on this train. That'll be a dollar."

Shay gave the conductor a dollar. The latter then got a table, made of two painted boards nailed together with a couple of cross-pieces. The players put this across their knees.

Bokker had played much poker during his army days and had played several times with Paul Shay when they had both been in the hospital. He remembered him as an indifferent player, but such was not the case now. Shay dealt smoothly, played his cards with confidence and bet boldly.

The man in the gray Prince Albert, who gave his name as Charles Templeton, played them close — like a professional. The surprise, to Bokker, however, was the buffalo hunter. He talked a fast, reckless game, but bet his cards shrewdly and carefully. After an hour of playing he was $40 ahead. Templeton, the obvious professional, was the big loser, more than $50. Shay was a few ly, it is in finding a realistic faith in God in an expanding universe. Where is the place of God, the Loving Father, in this vast world? We may be lost in wonderment, but is there a place for love and prayer and praise?

This, I think, is the deep question underlying much bewildering world, we can have a faith in God, perhaps a little different, but as vital as the faith we held when the margin of our Bibles said B. C. 4004. It might be remembered that margins were never a part of inspiration.

Mrs. C. D. McSwain returned to El Dorado on Tuesday after several days visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilbert and Mrs. O. G. Hirst.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ray Hamric of Garland, Texas are the house guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Danner.

Miss Betty Hendrix returned to Harding College in Searcy on Monday after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hendrix.

Dr. J. Paul Jones returned to Morehead, North Carolina on Monday after being the guest of his mother, Mrs. Blanche Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson and of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Ross of Emmet.

Adam Guthrie and Bill Gordon attended an insurance meeting in Texarkana on Tuesday and also visited Mrs. Fred Gordon who is a patient in Wadley Hospital.

Bernard Reppan of Hot Springs was a Monday business visitor in Prescott.

With an angry motion the young woman jerked her hands free. "Let me alone, Mister!" she exclaimed. "I was only trying to help you."

The girl bent over to pick up the bag off the floor. The man also stooped at the same instant and their heads collided.

The young woman cried out in pain and anger. Once more the man reached for her hands, managed to secure one and he started to massage it again.

The girl tried to free her hand of the man's grip. He clung to it. There was only one thing left for the girl to do. She swung her free hand and cracked the man's face with a stinging blow.

"You've paved me enough," snapped the girl.

"Well, that's what you're used to, ain't you?" Bokker got to his feet and took two quick steps forward. He grabbed the man by the coat collar, jerked him out into the aisle and gave him a hard, quick shove.

The man stumbled and hit the floor of the swaying coach. For just an instant he lay stunned, then scrambled to his feet.

His hand went under his coat. Bokker, who had not expected gunplay, struck out with his left hand, a flailing blow. It caught the arm of the man just as the hand came clear with a stubby revolver. The blow knocked the gun hand aside. Bokker, stepping in, smashed the man a savage blow on the jaw that again sent him to the floor, this time on his back.

The gun clattered to the floor behind the man. Bokker stepped quickly past him. He scooped up the gun, continued on to the end of the car. He jerked open the door and threw the gun out.

Then he turned. The man he had knocked down was getting weakly to his feet.

"I wasn't hurtin' the lady."

"You weren't helping her any."

The man hesitated, then backed to the vacated seat. He reached up and got his bag down from the rack. Shooting a black look at Bokker, he went past him and out of the coach.

Bokker watched him go. He nodded to the girl and intended to go on to his own seat. The girl said, "I'm sorry you had to fight him. He — he might have shot you."

"I don't think so."

Bokker waited a moment, then when she didn't go on, he said, "You're going to Pawnee City?"

"Is — is it so terrible in Pawnee City?"

"I don't know. I haven't been there. But I understand it's a boom town and boom towns are apt to be wild."

"That's what they — they told me, at home."

"Where's that?"

"Ohio. A little place called Canal Dover. There's no chance there for a girl to make a living and when my father died — well, to make a long story short, I read an article in a Cleveland paper. It told about Pawnee City."

She said it was a — I think those were the words — a rip-roaring town, where everybody had plenty of money and the cowboys thought nothing of paying even $20 for a hat to take back to Texas. So I thought: Well, I do know something about making hats."

Paul Shay came up behind Bokker and tapped him lightly on the shoulder. Bokker looked over his shoulder and saw Shay smirk. "This is my friend, Paul Shay, Miss."

"Compton. Ruth Compton."

"Delighted, Miss Compton!" cried Shay.

"I," said Bokker, "am Phil Bokker."

CHAPTER XII

Templeton and Jethro moved on to the next car. Paul Shay watched them leave, then exclaimed to Phil, "We've been taken. I've lost over $700. And it wasn't my money."

Bokker, who had lost only $22, winced. "You gambled with your company's money?"

"That's my trouble, Phil," said Shay worriedly. "But it isn't losing the money that makes me so mad, it's being a sucker. I have the feeling that the buffalo hunter and Templeton are working together."

"That's why I dropped out," said Bokker, "with four sixes."

"Four sixes?"

"I happened to notice that Jethro's hands were a little too soft-looking for a buffalo hunter."

Paul Shay half rose. "Why, the dirty —" His hand went under his coat toward his hip.

Bokker threw out a detaining hand. "Hold it Paul! You're no gunfighter."

Bokker's eyes flickered to the girl two seats away. She was struggling to wrestle a rather heavy carpetbag down from the overhead rack. Her seat companion was a middle-aged woman and facing them were two non-descript-looking men. One of these got to his feet.

"Allow me, madam!"

He thrust his hands up to the rack, claving at the bag.

The bag came down. It was heavier than he had expected and slipped, bouncing the girl's shoulder and striking her in the stomach.

She cried in pain.

The man leaned over, grabbing one of her hands in his. "Sorry, Madam. I tried to help you, but the bag slipped." He continued to chafe her hand, although it was her shoulder and body that had been struck by the bag.

DOROTHY DIX

Wat It For Love or For Her Money?

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I own a piece of property. My present husband demands I sell fraction as much as he uses to, I put everything we have in both our names, then make out a will together, one for all — all for one. I refused. I am 48, he 53. It is a second marriage for both.

I loved him for himself alone. My property is 300 miles from my husband's headquarters, so I rented my house. I gave my husband all my rent money.

After our marriage he decided we should trade off my car and get a station wagon which would be more useful in the business. He put the new wagon in his name.

He isn't a pauper. He pays his ex-wife alimony and support for a teen-age child. His three other children are grown. I have four grown children, taking care of themselves. Six months ago my husband demanded we separate, then take inventory to see where we stand; so I have been living at my former home and working.

Marriage isn't a game you quit playing whenever everything doesn't go your way. To me true love means the kind of love you show for the other person — not with things but with yourself. What do you think? — Wife-in-Name-Only.

Dear Wife-in-Name-Only: Reciprocal wills are sensible only when there is a true partnership and you should not sign one until you are certain that you are a lifetime partner. However, your difficulties may be less than you suppose. Why don't you discuss your differences fully and frankly with your husband. If that doesn't dissipate them, suggest bringing in a friend you both trust, such as your pastor, into the discussion. I feel that with kindness and compromise by both of you, your marriage can be happily adjusted.

Dear Faithful Reader: Your husband is being a show-off. The surest cure is praise spiced by good-natured ridicule. Marvel before friends in his presence at the range of his cussing-vocabulary. Never by word, look or attitude, betray your disapproval. Once he realizes that you are not longer shocked, he'll probably quit. If he doesn't — swearing isn't a cardinal sin. Abraham Lincoln had a pretty extensive cussing vocabulary himself.

Gains a Long Term

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The way was cleared today for President Chiang Kai-shek to gain a third six-year term without changing Nationalist China's constitution. The screening committee of the National Assembly voted 65-33 to suspend the constitutional two-term limit on the presidency during the "national crisis," which is as long as the Communists hold the China mainland.

Jasper, Marmaduke in State B Cage Finals

By TEDDY JONES, JR.

Before the largest basketball crowd ever assembled in Hope, Jasper and Marmaduke advanced to Saturday night's finals in the Arkansas State B Boys Basketball Tournament.

High scoring Jasper took the measure of District 7 representative, Amity, in Friday night's first semi final game by a 74 to 61 score. The game was fast, close and exciting all the way.

Marmaduke, pre tournament favorite from District 3, barely squeezed by another District 7 team, Sparkman, 7E, in the final minute and a half to come out on top 70 to 71. This lower bracket semi final match outdrew the first one in keeping the fans on edge.

Tonight's championship final, bringing together Jasper from the northwest section of the state and Marmaduke from the extreme northeastern sector, will begin at 8 p.m.

Large delegations of followers accompanied both Amity of nearby Clark County and Sparkman of not too distant Dallas County and swelled the crowd to about 2000 people.

Jones Field House seating accommodations will seat around 1800 and both sides of the gym were packed to capacity and chairs placed around the playing floor. Unofficial reports indicated that 1700 tickets were sold Friday night. This figure does not include student tickets sold prior to game time; and teams, players, and coaches in attendance.

Friday night's crowd should insure the financial success of the tournament. All admission proceeds are turned over to the Arkansas Athletic Association in accordance with Hope's tournament bid.

Tournament "pickers" rate the Jasper - Marmaduke championship game a toss up and basketball fans will be assured of an exciting game. Another capacity crowd is hoped for.

All state selections and tournament trophies will be awarded following the championship game.

SEMI FINALS

Jasper 74 - Amity 61
The Amity-Jasper opening game was close all the way with the lead changing hands several times. Jasper led at the end of the first quarter 20 to 18 and stayed in front at halftime 36 to 33.

Amity had a hot third quarter and jumped to the front 53 to 51 at the three-quarter mark. Amity was hampered by Larry Taylor picking up four first foul and sitting out the contest until the final two minutes.

Jasper pulled away in the final two minutes on baskets by Reynolds and Kelly. Eddy Reynolds of Jasper was the games high scorer with 22 points and was the backbone of the Jasper team in the rebounding department.

High scoring Joe Branswell, holder of the new single game individual game scoring mark of 51, Mass., died Wednesday at the points was held to 19 by Amity. Amity forward who also had 19 points, for runner up scoring honors.

Bobcats Bow to Fairview in Overtime

By TEDDY JONES, JR.

The Hope Bobcats dropped an overtime one point decision to the Fairview Cardinals in a close exciting 64-63 conference tournament game played at Smackover last night.

Smackover beat Crossett 64 to 60 in the other game of the four team tournament to determine the District's final standings and team berths in the AA-AAA State Tournament at Blytheville next week.

In the Bobcat Fairview game the score was tied at the end of regulation playing time 54 to 54 after the Bobcats had gone ahead in the third quarter. Hope led 57 to 52 at halftime and 53 to 51 at the end of the third quarter.

Smiley, Erwin, and Arnette scored 15 points each to lead Hope scorers while Boradnax with 10, Churchwell with 14 and Carley and Howerton with 11 and 10 were best for Fairview.

Inability to hit free throws in the three minute overtime probably cost Hope the win and clinch a sure place in the state meet. The winner of the Hope Crossett game tonight will be assured of third place and a trip to Blytheville. Last night's winners Smackover and Fairview crinkled first and second places as Conference representatives.

Hope had downed Fairview only last week in the final game of the season 62 to 51.

In regular conference play the Crossett Eagles and the Bobcats have split a pair of games both of which were played in Hope. Crossett took the first one 60 to 56 and the next night the Cats evened the series winning 54 to 39.

WEST INDIES' IDEAL FOR SMALL BOATERS

By WM. TAYLOR MCKEOWN

Editor, Popular Boating

Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HAVANA, Cuba—(NEA)—The West Indies, once cruising grounds for conquistadors and pirates, are now being re-discovered by small pleasure boats, as well as the large ones.

Families that have had extensive experience making long offshore cruises on inland waters can now trailer south, or charter

a boat in Florida. From Miami,

the Bahamas are a four hour trip in a fast boat; outboard cruisers and inboards often join together, wait for perfect weather, and then cross the Gulf Stream as a group. For long passages between islands, a small craft

can also be shipped by native freight boat.

An up-to-date survey of the Caribbean shows that boatmen can sail almost among these tropic isles. The only exception is Cuba, where it could be a mistake for a yachtsman to arrive in his own boat.

Once here, however, tourists are still very welcome. Although the famous Havana yacht clubs have practically suspended their boating activities, any visitor from the States will find many sports cruisers ready for offshore fishing at bargain rates, and eager for customers.

Nassau to the north and Ja-macia to the south have benefitted from Cuba's political unrest. Charter boats, with skipper and crew, can take the boating families and their friends for a day, week, or month through the out-islands. Aboard, the boatman can live in luxury, or lend a hand while learning the operation of a sailing craft.

And for the sail-it-yourself enthusiast, more and more small outboards, sailboats and pleasure boating facilities are available

throughout the Bahamas and Caribbean.

Haiti, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands can be the goal of a cruise, or starting points for individual vacation voyages.

Swinging down to South America in a curve of colorful waters are the islands of the Leeward chain:

names like Antigua, Martinique,

Barbados and Trinidad.

By taking to the air to get there, the vacationing boatman

today can cover the Spanish

Main and, on arrival, take to the water and go exploring in a small craft similar to his own back home.

Vacations for Refugees

PARIS (AP)—France is airlifting about 800 political refugees to island vacation spots to nip in the bud any hostility toward Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev when

Ten planes began the operation today. The first group totaled 74.

The refugees, mostly from Eastern Europe, will stay in hotels in Corsica and other islands for nearly a month. The French government will pick up the bill, provide daily allowances, and take steps

so their jobs aren't lost.

Oscar Is Top Ranking U. S. Cage Player

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (EP)—The "Big O"

and the "Cabin Creek Comet" top

the 1960 college basketball All-

America announced today by The Associated Press.

That means, of course, Oscar

Robertson of the top-ranked University of Cincinnati Bearcats, and

Jerry West of West Virginia's

Southern Conference champions.

These two seniors, regarded as the best college players of the season, topped the voting by 329

sports writers and broadcasters from all parts of the country.

Rounding out the first team is Jerry Lucas, famed sophomore of Ohio State's Big 10 champions;

Darrell Imhoff, 6-10 senior from California's defending N.C.A.A.

champions and Tony Jackson, a junior from St. John's University of New York, the defending NIT champions.

Robertson polled 311 first place votes in making the All-America for the third straight year. West, the only other repeater from the 1959 All-America, received 304. Lucas polled 253 and Imhoff 234.

There was a big spread in the voting thereafter with Jackson leading out Tom Stith of St. Bonaverstine for the first team, 61-58.

Stith, a junior second only to

Robertson among major college scorers, was named to the second team along with sophomores Terry Dischinger of Purdue and Chet

Walker of Bradley, junior Roger

Kaiser of Georgia Tech and senior

Len Wilkens of Providence.

Lee Shaffer of North Carolina,

Billy McGill of Utah, Horace

Walker of Michigan State, Bill

Kennedy of Temple and tiny 5-6

Dick Hickox of Miami (Fla) were named as a third team. Hickox, perhaps the smallest player in major college ranks, led the Hurcans into the N.C.A.A. tournament with their best record ever.

Speculation Won't Interfere

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus today said he would not let "newspaper speculation" create a breach between him and Winthrop Rockefeller.

Faubus released copies of a letter he has written to Rockefeller asking if the latter wished to be reappointed to the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission. Faubus expected fourth term try.

In the letter, Faubus said, as he had before, that he didn't know Rockefeller's term on the commission had expired until newsmen have to take the initiative—that asked him about it. "I would like to know," Faubus wrote Rockefeller, who is the commission chairman, "if you desire to continue as a member of the board. If your answer is affirmative, I will be very glad to appoint you to this position."

In view of hints by Rockefeller last year that he might be interested in running for governor and there was for a time speculation Faubus expected fourth term try.

Earlier this week associates of Rockefeller said Faubus would Dillard Buys Store in Tulsa, Okla.

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—William Thomas Dillard, Texarkana, Tex., businessman, rancher, has purchased Tulsa's downtown Brown-Dinklin Co. Department Store in a reported multi-million dollar transaction.

Arrangements to purchase stock from Mrs. John A. Brown of Oklahoma City and Mr. John H. Dinklin of Tulsa were completed Tuesday by Dillard.

Amount involved was not revealed. Dillard, 45, also owns department stores in Texarkana, Ark., Magnolia, Ark., and Tyler, Tex. He lives at Texarkana, Tex., and owns a cattle ranch about 45 miles from there.

Cites the Housing Discrimination

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—"Integrated living is not possible in any one of five" communities across New York state because of "a vast amount" of discrimination against Negroes in the sale and rental of private housing, a state Senate committee reports.

"These facts clearly reveal that present anti-discrimination laws must be revised," Sen. George R. Metcalf (R., Auburn), committee chairman, said last night.

The committee said studies made last summer at Freeport, L. L. Greenburgh, Westchester County, Poughkeepsie, Platt burgh and Rochester showed "a common vein—denial to the Negro of equal status in the procurement of housing."

The Senate Committee on Public Health made the study to determine whether sale and rental housing was available for racial minorities "because of skepticism expressed in upstate New York over the need for fair housing legislation."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinking) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were thorough that sufferers made astounding statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.

HENS HAPPY ABOUT FEED, GIVE OWNER $3,600 BONUS

Among many pointers in this operation is how to make formula feed produce more eggs. Here's the story from Cyanamid.

This ranch makes money! It's the 71-acre ranch of Mr. Daniel J. Bakke of Turlock, California. Mr. Bakke runs a big business in buying and brooding quality chicks, carrying 25,000 laying hens for market eggs, producing turkey hatching eggs, poultry and turkey meat.

Says Mr. Bakke: "In an operation like this, good management, sanitation and feeding are all important. And for me, AUREOMYCIN® in my standard feed is essential to all three. Here's what I mean: AUREOMYCIN improves my feed and assures better health, less mortality and more production through better feed conversion. AUREOMYCIN also aids sanitation by lowering the disease level on my ranch. All of this leads to improvement in my entire management operation."

Controls disease, improves production

Mr. Bakke supplies figures. He says: "I conservatively estimate the value of AUREOMYCIN in maintaining high egg production at about $300 each month ($3,600 yearly)...and that's over the cost of the antibiotic. My laying hens really like to eat the mash containing AUREOMYCIN. They eat better, look better, lay better. We get a longer, more even lay and better shell quality. The big reason for this, of course, is the better health provided by AUREOMYCIN. We maintain a 50-gram level of AUREOMYCIN per ton of feed as a disease preventative, particularly against CRD and blue comb."

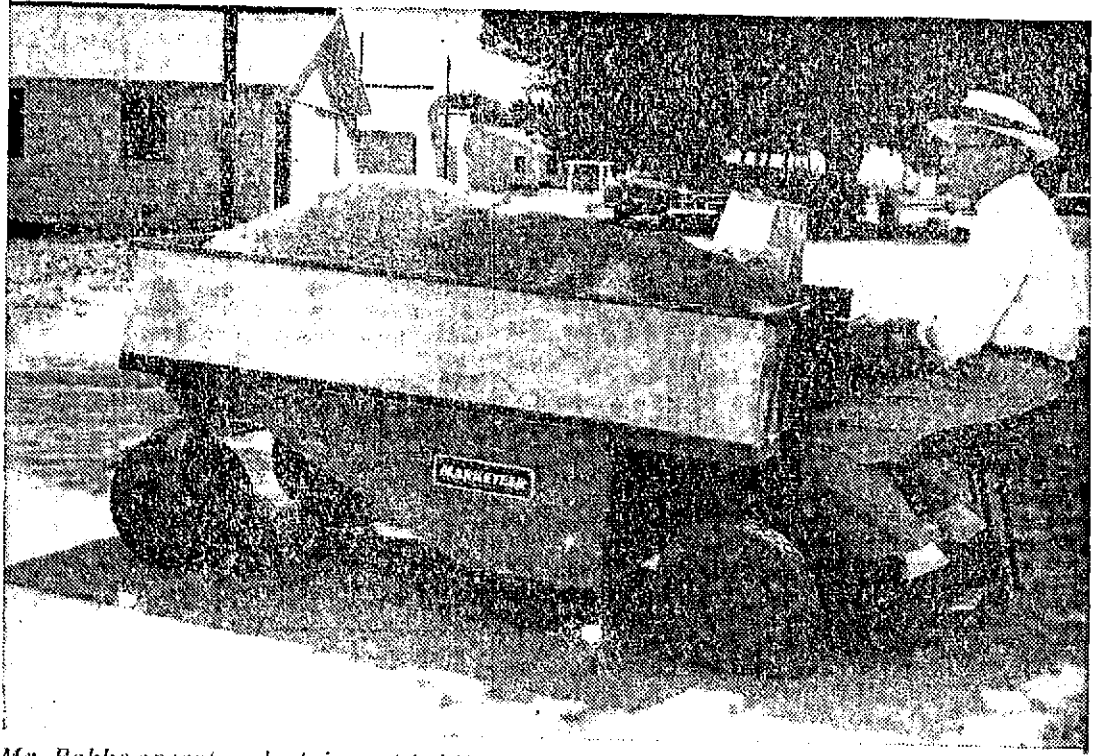

All flocks get Aureomycin

Mr. Bakke first learned of AUREOMYCIN 5 years ago through the State of California laboratory in Turlock. He started using it then and continues to use it for his chickens, laying hens and turkey flocks. The formula for Mr. Bakke's laying mash consists of soybean meal, protein elements such as fish meal and bone and meat scraps, grain, vitamins and AUREOMYCIN. The quantity of each item (except AUREOMYCIN) is figured on an IBM computer at the feed mill, resulting in costs savings per ton of feed.

Why Aureomycin gives better feed conversion
AUREOMYCIN is the wide-spectrum antibiotic that combats harmful

"Protection against stresses, CRD and blue comb keeps lay up to 75% and more. AUREOMYCIN is the answer. We also use it for young chicks and for our turkey flocks."

Mr. Bakke operates electric cart holding 1000 lbs. feed. "I figure that AUREOMYCIN costs us about 1¢ per bird per month...and pays for itself many times over."

bacteria. It helps prevent stresses and invisible, sub-clinical diseases that use up feed energy. It is particularly effective against CRD and blue comb. Flocks don't waste feed fighting disease—they use it to produce more.

If you want to build up the health and productive capacity of your laying hens, talk to your feed manufacturer or feed dealer.

Ask for feeds containing AUREOMYCIN. American Cyanamid Company, Agricultural Division, New York 20, N. Y. AUREOMYCIN is American Cyanamid Company's trademark for chlorotetracycline.

what you need is an ELECTRIC DRYER!

How much longer are you going to put up with clothes-line drying? It's hard enough on nice days—having to lug all your things outside—but on rainy days it's just awful!

Anyway—why hang clothes? An electric dryer will dry them cleaner, fluffier and faster, and it does the job any time—day or night, rain or shine.

Yes, an automatic dryer really takes the work and worry out of washday. Just pop the damp clothes into the dryer, and minutes later they're fluffy-dry, yet fresh as all outdoors. They're a lot cleaner, too, for no dirt can get into your dryer. Better see your Electric Dryer Dealer this month—for the helpingest washday appliance you can buy!

Castro Gets Away With Rule Breaking

Foreign News Commentary By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign Editor

The amazing thing about the Fidel Castro regime is that he breaks most of the rules, and continues to get away with it.

The answer seems to lie in the fact that business and some governments, including the United States, have become disillusioned about their ability to get along with the bearded revolutionary, but the bulk of the Cuban people have not.

No matter that the Cuban National Bank is under direction of a man with no experience in finance and who is more used to balancing a rifle than a check-book.

No matter that foreign investment is being cut to zero.

No matter that sugar cane fields lie idle.

And no matter that the vaunted agreement to sell five million tons of sugar to the Soviet Union may cost the Cubans more to produce than they possibly can realize from the sale.

The Cuban peasant may not fully understand the slogan "Cuba for the Cubans" but he likes the sound of it.

Practices Screaming

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Robert Canning, 15, has been given permission by the sheriff's office to practice screaming near a cemetery.

Canning asked to be allowed to scream "several times a day for 10 or 15 minutes at a time."

He said he hopes to get a role in a motion picture if his screams are satisfactory.

Deputy Sheriff James Webster said Thursday Canning was given permission on one condition.

He also likes the sound of government-supplied housing and the gift of land. It hasn't all come about, but he believes it will.

The Cuban treasury never has been his concern and isn't now.

Two recent events are illustrative of the workings of the Castro regime. But have an effect on the United States.

One was Castro's attack on foreign investments in Cuba—in which the U.S. stake is nearly a billion dollars—and the announcement that foreign private funds henceforth would have to be invested in the government securities.

It was the death knell for new foreign investments in Cuba and must inevitably slow the advancement which Castro so ardently proclaims for the Cuban people.

But it fits the revolutionary pattern which was anticipated when the national bank was taken over by leftist Ernesto (Che) Guevara.

Want No Quota Changes
In similar vein was the Cuban government's recent bald announcement it would be willing to negotiate its differences with the United States but only on grounds of a U.S. pledge that it meant while would take no action damaging to Cuba's economy.

In other words, no changes in the sugar quota under which the United States annually takes more than three million tons of Cuban sugar at a rate two cents above the market. This and tourism have been the backbone of the Cuban economy.

When the United States refused to negotiate with its hands tied behind its back, the explosion of indignation among Cuban revolutionaries easily was anticipated.

President Eisenhower has warned against action which could harm the Cuban people. But U.S. patience also must have its limits.

What Does A Father Owe His Children?

Dear Dorothy Dix: What does a father owe his children?
My husband says a roof over their heads and food. He does not go to church with us. He calls our son, "Boy." I cannot remember hearing him called "Son," nor can I remember when he has said a kind word to him.

Our argument is this. I work to support my family. I have two children extra to do a good job of cleaning. They have no allowance. Am I wrong? I do not pay them for their regular duties such as washing dishes, cleaning their room and emptying trash. — Mrs. C.C.C.

DEAR MRS. C.C.C.: What a father owes his children can be answered in a single capitalized word—LOVE. But it isn't so much a matter of owing as it is giving. Until your husband's heart overflows with love for his children, he will never be a real father.

In regard to your second question—is it wrong to pay the children for doing extra chores—certainly not. A laborer is worthy of his hire. Their industry affords you a wonderful opportunity to teach them the value of money. Make sure they deposit at least 10 per cent of their earnings in savings accounts each week. Label the accounts College Education.

THE STORY: After losing money to professional gamblers on a train in Kansas, Phil Bokker and Paul Shay meet a young woman named Ruth Compton, who is also headed for the frontier town of Pawnee City.

Chapter 13

The howling of thousands of cattle, grazing on the plains near Pawnee City, was the signal for the passengers on the train to gather together their bags and belongings. The train slackened its speed, the engine bell tolling, and finally came to stop at the station.

Phil Bokker carried both his own valise and that of Ruth Compton. Paul Shay escorted Ruth out of the coach and helped her down the coach steps to the station platform.

It was an unpainted depot, built of fresh, raw lumber, as were most of the buildings on the single street that ran south.

Ruth stopped on the depot platform. Such a panic seemed to grip her as she looked down the town street. Bokker did not wonder. There were six inches of dust on the street that was choked with wagons, horses and a seething mass of humanity.

Most of the buildings were one-story or one-story with false fronts.

U.S. Gives Cuba

freighter La Coubre blew up, killing 50 to 70 persons. It jumped to safety on the dock after the first explosion.

Chapman said he "didn't have the slightest idea we had munitions aboard until we were well under way" after sailing from Antwerp, Belgium.

A Cuban civilian court cleared Chapman of any connection with the explosions in a five-minute hearing after Cuban military intelligence had held him incommunicado. No official charges were ever placed against him.

Cuban newspapers and radio stations kept up their anti-American denunciations. They elaborated on Castro's vague charges of sabotage in trying to pin the blame on the United States.

Castro conceded that his charges were based largely on U.S. policy rather than any concrete evidence. He declared U.S. officials had tried to prevent Cuba from getting arms by diplomatic means "and we have a right to believe they could have tried to prevent it by other means."

"We're again," Bokker said. "Miss Compton will have the front room and"—he looked inquiringly at Shay—"I guess you and I will have to share the small room."

"That's nonsense," said Ruth Compton. "I'll take the small room."

"It's settled," said Paul Shay promptly.

"No, it isn't. As a matter of fact, I don't think I can afford to pay double. How much is it?"

"Six dollars a day, ma'am," was the correction.

Ruth let out an exclamation of dismay. "I can't pay six dollars a day for a room."

"Prices are high in Pawnee City," observed the hotel man. He looked inquiringly at Templeton.

"You wish a room, sir?"

"Naturally. The best you've got in the house, sir."

"Take the room," Bokker said to Ruth. "For one night, at least. I'll give you time to look around."

Ruth's forehead creased in worry. "I suppose I'll have to, but..." She left the sentence unfinished.

Bokker signed the register for himself and Paul Shay, then hesitated and handed the pen to Ruth. She signed quickly.

The man said to Templeton, "Unless one of my guests happens to be killed this evening, I'm full up."

Bokker again took up Ruth's bag, as well as his own. Shay carried his bag and the keys. They climbed the stairs to the second floor and Shay found Ruth's room, No. 5 at the front of the house.

He opened the door, revealing the "large" room. It was about 9 by 12 feet in size, containing an unsavory-looking bed, a stand with a pitcher and bowl and a small chair. Nails in the wall served in lieu of a closet.

Adopted Girl Too Brilliant for Parents

by FRED DANZIG

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—It was our leader's first night back after 18 months of Army service in Germany. Naturally, I assume Elvis Presley spent that night watching TV.

I hope he wasn't disappointed if he tuned to NBC-TV's "Journey to Understanding." It turned out to be about General Eisenhower's travels around South America, not Sgt. Presley's flight to Ft. Dix. During the show, there was a unusual moment when host Frank McGee asked correspondent Ray Sherer if it was really true that President Eisenhower saw the tear gas episode in Montevideo. Sherer confirmed the news. Actually, the half-hour had very little to say or show.

If Elvis watched his friendly rival, Pat Boone, (with Boone, you know, rivalry is always amused, as I was, by some of the numbers in which Pat and guest Dorothy Collins showed the old "Hit Parade" TV show. It was a clever lot of kidding. But, Pat didn't say hello to Elvis. Alas, poor Elvis.

If our leader watched "The Untouchables" on ABC-TV I hope he didn't expect it to be about his platoon leader and company commander. This one-hour show concluded its two-part production called, "Unhired Assassin," which purported to tell the story of the attempted assassination of President-elect Roosevelt way back in 1933—just about two years before Elvis was born. The final chapter, like the first last week, cleverly killed time before killing Mayor Anton Cermak. There was a lot of hokum, but the breathless narration, the faces of the actors and the skills of its writers again made for an above-average show.

If Elvis still felt neglected, I hope he tuned to CBS-TV's "Revlon Revue" in time to catch Herb Shriner's salute. Herb called Elvis "the Nelson Eddy of the rock 'n' roll set." The "home movies" that Shriner showed was a funnier bit.

Not much attention to Elvis after that, except for the late news. And here, Elvis wasn't neglected at all. He took the play away from the arrival home of another old soldier, Jack Paar.

While watching the very slick Peggy Lee sing on the aforementioned Revlon show, I found myself thinking of Mary Ann Mobley, who was suddenly dropped from the dreary CBS-TV hour, "Be Our Guest." I remembered how raw Miss Lee's talents were when she first joined the Benny Goodman band. So it was with Miss Mobley as she sang with the Ray McKinley band on the "Guest" show. Miss Mobley seems to be a hard-working youngster and her future lies ahead. In any event, even now, she has more on the ball than the emcee, gorgeous George De Witt. (Or, as he is sometimes called, Gentleman George.)

The Channel Swim: George De Witt has asked to be released from his chores on CBS-TV's "Be Our Guest." Backstage disputes with the production staff are given as the reason. Earlier this week, it was learned that De Witt had Mary Ann Mobley; former Miss America, dropped from the cast. While De Witt continues as host for a few more weeks, CBS execs will be seeking a successor. Possible choices: Keefe Braselle or Bert Parks.

"Where Is Abel, Your Brother?" a report on the refugee problem, occupies NBC-TV's "World View 60" on Saturday, March 19. Madeline Carroll will be the narrator. Starting Sunday, March 20, ABC-TV's "Maverick" begins a series of repeat. Yogi Berra, Rocky Graziano and singer Julie Wilson are some of the amateur bowlers who will headline "America Bowls," the CBS-TV 90-minute sports special on Sunday, March 27. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany will "Meet The Press" on NBC-TV Sunday, March 20.

Negroes Register in Tennessee

SOMERVILLE, Tenn., (AP)—Strictly segregated Fayette County, under pressure from the Civil Rights Commission, peacefully registered Negroes as voters yesterday.

More than 200 Negro farmers braved icy roads in a mass registration drive. After recording 70 Negro voters and 76 whites, the office closed for a month.

The county registrar operates only on the first Wednesday of each month. Negroes and whites still in line were told to report back April 6.

Although 70 per cent of this county's 28,000 residents are Negro, they seldom vote and have been barred from the Democratic primaries.

A federal court suit is pending against the county contending that the rights of being barred from the primary elections.

Freight Cars Derail Near Jonesboro

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—The caboose and tank car of a Frisco freight train derailed near Jonesboro during a snowstorm last night. A brakeman reportedly suffered minor injuries.

Trainmen said the last two cars of the freight went off the rails about three miles south of Jonesboro and overturned. The underside of the caboose caught fire.

The brakeman and another crewman climbed out of the caboose and hailed a taxicab returning to Jonesboro along nearby Highway 6. The cab took them to where the rest of the 50-car train had stopped and the freight went on to Memphis.

Firemen from Jonesboro extinguished the fire in the caboose. Frisco spokesmen said about one-fourth of a mile of track was ripped up in the derailment but traffic was expected to resume today.

The train was on a run from Springfield.

Identity of the brakeman and the extent of his reported injuries could not be learned immediately. About one inch of snow fell in the Jonesboro area during the night.

Jury Debates Call Girl Murder Case

CEDARTOWN, Ga. (AP)—A jury continued debate today on the guilt or innocence of Mrs. Loraine Stanga. Atlanta call girl charged with helping murder a Lawrenceville mortician.

The jurors received the case late yesterday after hearing Mrs. Stanga deny that she lured Virgil Glenn Gray to her apartment in what the state charged was a plot to rob and kill him.

William Hoyt Ledford, convicted and given the death penalty in the slaying, implicated Mrs. Stanga. She and the two were arrested in Oklahoma and Gray's body was found by a hunter where it had been dumped in Arkansas.

Mrs. Stanga testified she was a putcher and bowl and a small chair. Nails in the wall served in lieu of a closet.

District Banquet Successful

The Prescott District Banquet held at Ward Chapel A.M.E. Church, Prescott, Sunday, March 6, was a great success.

Ministers and laymen from seven of the thirteen churches on the district, were represented. A very enjoyable program was presented.

A delicious turkey dinner was served to approximately 40 persons.

'Treasure Island' Was Nightmare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Wire Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Treasure Island," CBS' Show of the Month, thoughtfully was broadcast early Saturday night. This permitted the nation's small fry to see the Robert Louis Stevenson children's classic before being tucked in.

What they saw was enough for nightmares, including more violence and brutality than you'd find in a month of Westerns and private eye episodes.

There were fights and bloody corpses galore. There was swearing. The teen-age hero, Jim Hawkins, was chased up into the treasure ship's rigging by a blood-thirsty pirate. The boy shot him down and the last we saw of the body it was hanging head down from a rope ladder.

Jim also was given a swig of rum. For no particular reason one pirate screamed his way to death in quicksand and skeletons festooned the landscape like lanterns at a garden party. For the adults in the audience, however, "Treasure Island" was a sort of nostalgic burlesque with jolly pirates yo-ho-ing over a dead man's chest, threatening to snatch out eyes, and drooping over John Hugh Griffith played Long John Silver (without eye-patch, which was a mistake) as if he were doing an imitation of the late Lionel Barrymore. He acted as if his wooden leg hurt when he gingerly stepped upon it, so it probably did.

The tale was given an enthusiastic production and the scenes on ship were particularly good.

It will be interesting to see if critics complain about the violence, brutality and wholesale slaughter of this adaptation of a classic as loudly as they do about the regular shoot-outs in the non-classic action series.

It recommended tonight: Kate Smith Show, CBS, 7-30-8 — with Jackie Gleason leading the orchestra playing his own compositions; Playhouse 90, CBS, 9-30-11 — adaptation of William Faulkner's "Tomorrow" with Richard Boone and Kim Stanley; Ted Mack and the Original Amateur Hour, ABC, 10-30-11 — the return to the networks of the venerable show; Jack Paar Show, NBC, 11-15-11 a.m.—return of the comic after his publicized walkout.

Bobcats Battle To Berth in State Tourney

By Teddy Jones, Jr.

The Hope Bobcats won a berth in the State AA-AAA tournament in a victory over Crossett Saturday night 70-52 in the AAA qualifying tournament at held in Smackover.

The two four teams of the district, Smackover, Fairview, Hope and Crossett took part in the tournament which decided the conference's three representatives to the state meet. Smackover, Fairview and Hope will represent the AAA District Conference.

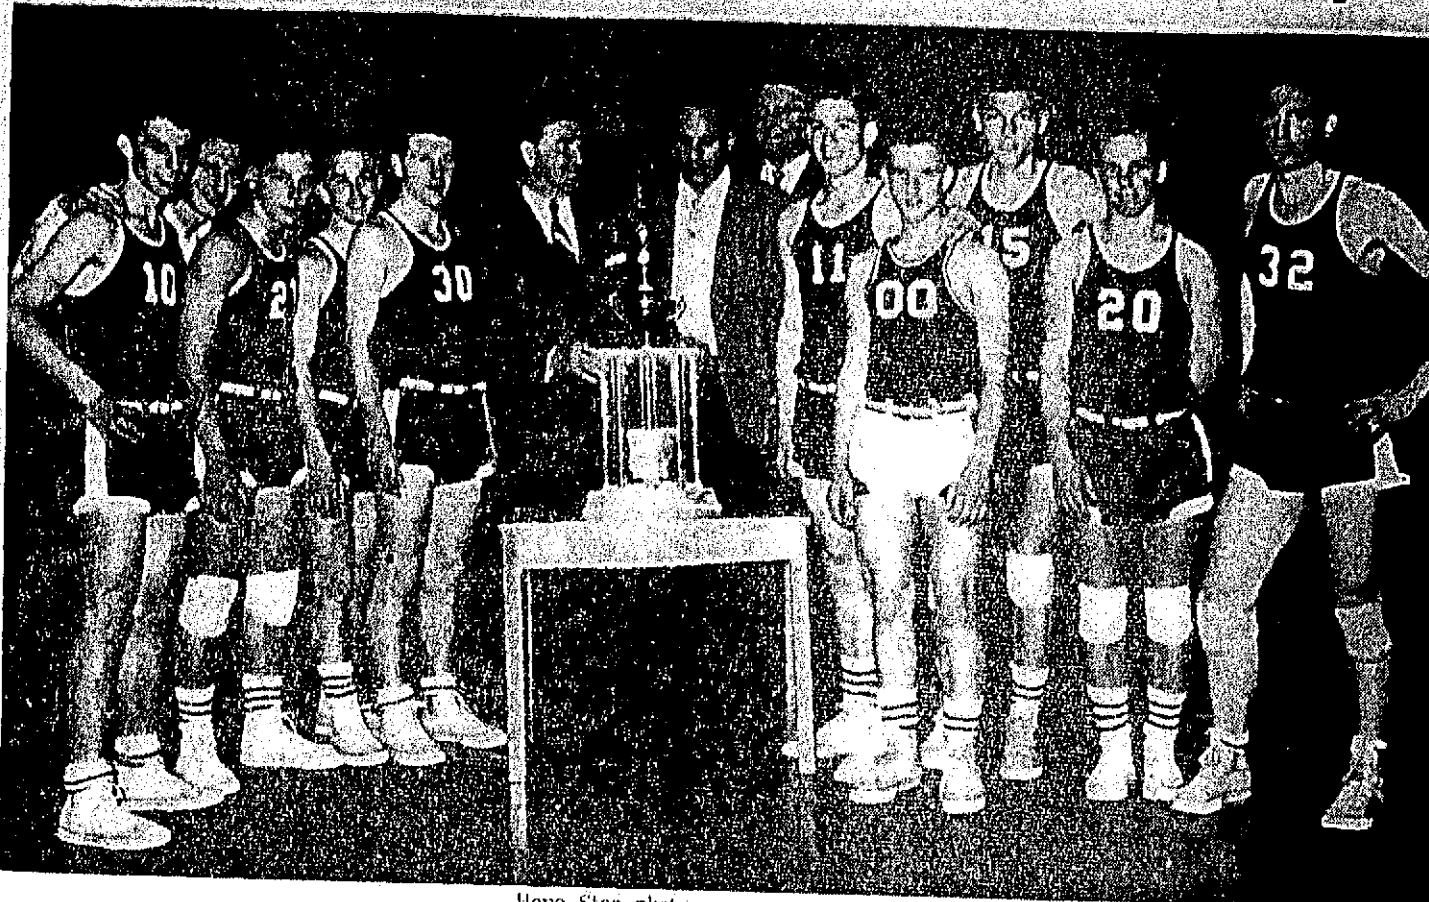

In the Cate game Glen Calhoun was on top of the scoring column with 20 points. Byron Smiley was runner-up for the scoring honors with 16 points. Larry Walton tossed in 13 points to place third.

Next Wednesday the Bobcats take on Strom Catholic High of Little Rock in the state meet to be held in Blytheville. The Cats play at 2:00 Wednesday afternoon and are expected to leave for Blytheville sometime Tuesday.

Smackover and Blytheville open the State Tournament playing the first game of a big event at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday.

Fairview of Camden, District 4AA's other representative, also drew a formidable foe in Jonesboro whom they play in the first round at 7:30 Wednesday night.

Jasper Takes Arkansas B Championship

By Teddy Jones, Jr.

High scoring Jasper, the Cinderella team of the State B Boys Tournament, defeated Marmaduke 70 to 63 in the championship game of the Arkansas State Basketball Tournament at Jones Field House Saturday night.

Led by individual scoring record holder, Joe Brazel who racked up 33 points in the championship game, Jasper jumped to a first quarter 23 to 15 lead; led by 10 points 41 to 31 at the half; and successfully slowed down play in the final quarters to dominate to the end in winning their first state championship.

Brazel was ably assisted by Eddie Reynolds, post man and rebounding specialist who scored 21 points, and Carl Kelly who contributed 10.

Chester Barner, Jr., repeat all-state performer for Marmaduke and the coaches' son, led the northeast Arkansas entry with 17 points. Williams followed with 13 and Huckaby played a big part by scoring 11 and turning an excellent rebounding game.

Joe Brazel of Jasper was named the outstanding player of the tournament.

Senate Record
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate at 1:39 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time) today broke a record for practically continuous session held in an effort to choke off filibuster.

This record of 85 hours and 23 minutes was set in 1954 in an effort to wear down opponents of an atomic energy bill involving the question of public vs. private.

At 1:30 a.m. this morning the Senate had been in session for 85 hours and 24 minutes since Monday.

Rhoden Gets Named to SWC Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High-scoring Clyde Rhoden of the Arkansas Razorbacks has been named to the Southwest Conference basketball "dream team" for 1960.

He was joined on the six-man team by Jay Amette of Texas, Carroll Broussard of Texas A & M, Carroll Dawson of Baylor and Max Williams and Steve Strange of Southern Methodist.

Amette was the only unanimous choice for this team. Broussard was the only sophomore chosen.

Rhoden, a 6-3 jump shot artist from Fort Springs, tied for fifth spot on the team with Strange.

Rhoden set two scoring records for the University of Arkansas during the season—most points in conference games and most points from free throws in conference play.

The six-man second team was made up of Brenton Hughes and Al Althoff of Texas, David Craig of Rice, Ed Raymonds of Texas Tech, Kim Nash of SMU and Wayne Lawrence of Texas A & M.

Spa Racing Season Gets a New Start

HOPE, Ark. (AP)—Racing fans dug out lucky charms there today for the first time in a week. They wished not only for luck at Oaklawn Park's betting windows, but for a letup in the foul winter weather which caused a 5-day postponement in the spring racing meet.

Oaklawn resumes its daily racing programs today with an eight-race card, the feature of which is the $4,500 Trailways Purse. It's a six-furlong allowance dash for four-year-olds and up.

A thin sheet of ice covered the track yesterday but the thoroughbreds worked out and the track was expected to be ready by today's first race.

Altogether, six racing days have been lost due to weather. The program has been extended an extra week to make up for the lost time.

Eight of the 142 three-year-olds nominated for the Kentucky Derby May 7 are competing at Oaklawn. At least 10 more are scheduled to arrive within the next two to three weeks. All 18 will be named for the $25,000 added Arkansas Derby March 26.

Tony Graff, winner of the Louisiana Derby, is scheduled to arrive from New Orleans today. Own-bred Tony Graffagnini already has named the colt for the Arkansas Derby.

3-AA Cage Tourney to Get Started

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas' biggest basketball show, the AAA-AA high school state tournament, begins here tomorrow with 16 of the most evenly-matched teams in history fighting for the championship.

North Little Rock, the Big Nine Conference (AAA) champion, is the odds-on favorite. If someone knocks off the Wildcats, any of the other 15 teams could win it.

Blytheville, the host team and runner-up in the Big Nine, is second-seeded. Little Rock Catholic, the 3AA winner, is third-seeded, and Leachville, the 2AA champion, is fourth-seeded.

Action begins at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Blytheville's 3,000-seat field house when the host Wildcats take on AAA champ Smackover. Then Springfield faces Little Rock Central in the other afternoon test.

Tomorrow night, IAA co-champ Harrison takes on Conway and Leachville meets Russellville.

Wednesday's first round games are: Catholic High vs. Hope, IAA co-champ Fayetteville vs. Fort Smith, Jonesboro vs. Camden Fairview, and North Little Rock vs. Forrest City in the nighttime.

The Wildcats face one of the state's top schoolboy players in its first game, Donnie Kessinger of Forrest City, a lefty guard in three sports, has averaged 27 points in 27 games and has been the Mustang sparkplug in basketball just as he was in football.

North Little Rock will combat him with two 6-5 forwards—Larry Hogue and George Ponder—who have been the stalwarts in the Wildcats' 25-1 record.

North Little Rock's only loss was to Leachville's 3,000-seat field house when the host Wildcats took on AAA champ Smackover. They scored 30 points in one district tournament game, also considered prime material for the all-tournament team.

Fort Smith of the Big Nine has won the tournament for the past three years but the Grizzlies are in a rebuilding year and finished third in the Big Nine. They are darkhorses to match the Wildcats.

Quarterfinals are set Thursday and semifinals Friday. The championship game is Saturday night.

When to Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables

By John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar periods as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Broyles Would Also Move Bowl Game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas University football coach Frank Broyles said yesterday he agrees with a proposal to move the Southwest Conference's football bowl game away from Dallas, Tex., if professional football is played there on Saturdays. And Broyles added that the league possibly could tie up with Houston's Bluebonnet Bowl.

Rice Institute coach Jess Neely suggested last week that if professional teams use the Cotton Bowl stadium for Saturday games, to compete with Southwest Conference games in the area, the conference should move the bowl game away from Dallas.

The SWC champion now is host team in the Cotton Bowl. The State Fair of Texas, which operates the bowl, has leased it to the Dallas Texans of the National Football League and offered its use to the Dallas Rangers of the American Football League.

Two pro games have been scheduled on Saturdays.

as the idol's getaway car.

The Presley uniform bore the three stripes and rocker of a staff sergeant instead of his rating of three stripes. A mistake at the tailor's, he explained.

The singer said he was putting his uniform in mothballs as soon as he arrived at Graceland, his Memphis home and get hold of some civilian clothing.

Along with the civvies, he will resume his old nightclub routine of rising at noon and ending the day at about 3 a.m.

Presley was released from the Army Saturday. Crowds of teenagers greeted the train as he rolled homeward.

Paar Returns to His TV Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Paar returns to his television program tonight.

Paar said he never would appear again on the show when he walked off it last month. He was angry because the National Broadcasting Co. had edited out one of his jokes. The network said the joke, about a water closet, was in bad taste.

Says College Students Live Too High

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The money that many a college student spends to live it up in Joe College style ought to be used instead for increased tuition, a college president said today.

Howard R. Bowen of Grinnell College said "the educational and intellectual stakes are too high to condone the frittering away on luxurious living the funds that should go to education."

"In many institutions," he said, "the accepted style of life includes automobiles, liquor, fragrances or luxurious dormitories, expensive wardrobes, night clubs, extended ski trips, etc. At no institution does this pattern extend to all students, but in many it is increasingly aware of the financial standard which sets the tone needs of higher education, he said, and to which most students and whatever money is needed aspire."

Bowen, in an address prepared and the only of questions is to for the 15th National Conference on Education, sounded an optimistic note about the financial Bowen said tuition charges band in which many colleges are should be increased, and will be.

Women Yell as Elvis Arrives Home

By BILL CRIDER

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Shrieking women—youth and old—greeted a train Elvis Presley on the rock 'n' roll idol's return home today.

"Tunch up, Earl! Elvis," shrieked a crowd of about 100 fans, evenly divided between school-scholarship teenagers and gray-haired "aunties."

Presley, in Army dress blues, stepped from his private railroad car and walked along the iron fence on the train platform, grinning and waving the female hands thrust through the bars.

Looking toward the crowd, Presley said "I've been waiting for this day for two long years."

"The girls are on a shell clam conference on the train and groaning when a police car was backed through the gate to serve the inmates."

The Arkansas people are in to all students, but in many it is increasingly aware of the financial standard which sets the tone needs of higher education, he said, and to which most students and whatever money is needed aspire."

Bowen, in an address prepared and the only of questions is to for the 15th National Conference on Education, sounded an optimistic note about the financial Bowen said tuition charges band in which many colleges are should be increased, and will be.
